Brighton Iceman Pays Fine of $15

Downing Company Driver Gave Customer Short Weight.

It didn't look like fifty pounds to the three men inside of No. 7 Bagin street, Brighton, who spoke to Mr. Haggitt about it, when he came home.

Haggitt took a look at the alleged fifty pounds and telephoned to the Scales of Weight and Measures. This was his story.

Yesterday, two deputy scales were in the Haggitt house when the same woman, Roy Higgins, thirty, employed by the Downing Company of Brighton, came with another fifty pounds.

The deputies, Sawyer and Ryan, found the scale also pounds short. They had three weeks, explained that it is a tick job but he cut for and got "just on."

JUSTICE WEBS 2 ON LAWN

Miss Della Dana Married at Manchester-by-Sea as Brother Was.

BRIDE OF HUTCHINSON

Miss Della Farley Dana, granddaughter of the late John Dana, was married in the open air by a justice of the peace this afternoon to Robert E. Hutchinson of Philadelphia, who secured his diploma at Harvard last week. The ceremony was performed at "Danbeck," the Dana summer home at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

It was an "ethical marriage," the second in the Dana family. Just a year and a week ago the "ethical" bride's brother, Edmund Trowbridge Dana, was married in a similar manner to Miss Jessie, daughter of an English painter.

Today's ceremony had a picturesque setting. Standing on a flowered terrace in the Dana garden, looking out over the ocean and with the crash of the waves taking the place of Lohengrin's music, the couple went through the "ethical marriage service." This was adapted by the bride who is an ardent Socialist and suffragist, as is her brother, Edmund Trowbridge Dana.

Promptly at 12:30 o'clock the bride, dressed in white, was escorted to the altar by her brother. She carried no bouquet, but her bouquet was placed in a basket of pink roses. At her side walked young Hutchinson, dressed as if he were simply going out for a stroll, in an everyday blue serge suit with soft shirt and collar.

Twenty-five persons were present, most of them intimate friends of the Dana and Hutchinsons. Justice A. F. Jewett performed the ceremony, which was brief and marked by the groom's placing a plain gold ring on the bride's finger.

Arthur Hutchinson, brother of the groom, was best man. He had a speech to make, which was very brief. He said that he was proud to be a witness to the marriage of his brother and his bride.

Robinson in Boston a year or so ago, has aroused the citizens of the country to such a pitch of indignation that Governor Goldsborough of Maryland has been petitioned to take prompt action toward the publishers of her slayer.

THE new transparent gown that shocked even Paris. Several have been sold already in New York, where they have just arrived. Ornamented ankles are supposed to go with it.

The "Expose Toilette," one of the daring gowns from Paris just placed on sale by a New York department store. They are intended for late afternoon receptions and are priced from $850 to $1,100.

NEW YORK, June 25.—The very latest gown sensation from Paris, the "Exposé Toilette" has reached New York.

According to this latest fashion, chic femininity will no longer wear stiff, choking collars, heavy skirts, tight waists and curtaining corsets.

Instead there will be a combination of embroidered silk trunks, monogrammed and bordered silk stockings and filmy draped robes—so draped as to expose to view the lines and curves of the figure and much of the limbs.

One of these remarkable gowns was worn on Fifth avenue and drew the astonished stare of throngs until traffic policemen near Forty-second street were forced to drive them on.

This gown was made of champagne tulle, embroidered in roses and gold, and had a black net over a corset bodice. Black tulle formed a waist over the hips. The hat was also a French creation of straw trimmed with black tulle and unadorned.

Following the fashion in Paris, heavily embroidered stockings will be worn and trinkets and jewels will be clasped just below the knee. No petticoats or other undergarments will be worn. In rain, dry weather the effect will be enhanced by the wearing of a sort of sandpump of patent leather with the heels and Colonial fashion.

The store which displays the new gowns prices them at from $275 to $1,100.

Relative of King George Reprets Indiscreet Speech.

LONDON, June 25.—The House of Commons has received assurance of the apology of Count Gleichen, a distant relative of King George, for an indiscreet jingo speech in which he sneered at Andrew Carnegie.

Count Gleichen, it is alleged, said these were gentlemen, who, like James Keir Hardie, Andrew Carnegie, and various "peace Presidents," declared that a big army led to militarism, and he contended that persons of that sort, however well-meaning they might be, could only be suffering from softening of the brain.

In another version of the speech Count Gleichen is represented as saying that he was delighted to see that the government proposed to bring forward a bill for the sale of the Fens, and he would commend to their best charge Messrs. Keir Hardie and Carnegie.

High Rate in Paris.

NEW YORK, June 25.—In the first mortality table of the periodical cities of the world in 1912 that has been made public the health department reports that Amsterdam, with more than half a million inhabitants, has the lowest death rate—10.31 per cent. Next comes Christchurch and Providence with 11.21 and 11.94 per cent, though they have a much higher infant mortality than most of the United States and New York.

Among the five cities London and London have rates of 13.82 and 13.88, New York 14.11, Berlin 14.29 and Paris 14.88.

The high rate of Paris is ascribed to the ravages of pulmonary tuberculosis and also the declining statistics of several decades.

The percentage of New York, which stands fifth on the list, is the lowest of would be the city and is undoubtedly a result of view of the treatment conducted.

The New Beauty Bath for Hands and Arms

The new beauty bath now on popular among women is very simple. First, the hands and arms are cleansed and dried, then bathed for a few minutes in cold water in a quart of warm water to which has been added a small amount of purified cream. This is allowed to dry slowly on the skin. The dairy cream and elegance given to the skin by these baths will repay any amount for the few minutes required to take them.

This beauty bath handles the red, rough, ugly condition, and to a "watermark," tanned, freckled, or blotchy skin will give a virgin purity and elegance that is impossible with creams or lotions. The purified cream can be bought at any drug store in original boxes or packages for a small sum. Avoid buying it in bulk, as the purity and strength may be impaired.

Seek Masqueraders in Lobby Inquiry

Committee Wants Two Questions Answered; Tariff Delays Testimony.
WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Senate lobby investigating committee has determined to get the answer to two questions.

Are big financial interests, or men prominent in the financial world, being proved up by certain Senate lobby committee men who seek to make them believe that they are able to pull wires in Washington with unusual skill?
If so, are these individuals using the names of and representing members of Congress?

The committee will not be able to call witnesses to answer these questions until the testimony of Judge Robert S. Lovett until after the Senate lobby committee has completed its work on the tariff bill.

'China Making Good' Says Visitor Liao

The Chinese republic has safely passed through the difficulties which always attend the founding of a new government, according to Liao Liao, a wealthy Chinese, who is at the "Voyage Place" today.

"China is all right and will make good," he continued. Mr. Liao, who is about forty years old, dresses in occidental fashion and speaks English fluently.

LACK POLICE PROTECTION AT CITY POINT

The people of South Boston have appealed to the AMERICAN to protect against conditions at City Point park.

Letters received by the AMERICAN, and the reports of the AMERICAN's investigator sent to the park, reveal an amazing condition there.

Police make no effort to curb looting parties in the park. Stages of young men or boys throw the paths and jump the fences. Young women, alone must either submit to be insulted or leave the park.

Here is the first letter received from a South Boston man. He wrote:

A Typical Letter.
"I cannot but say that it is something to make City Point Park a place where decent people can go without having to listen to vile language and to the shouts and yells of gangs of loafers—boys and girls. My wife and myself, the husbands of others, have again and again been forced to leave the park and have our ears tingled."

In two hours there one evening I saw just one officer, and he ignored what was going on.

The other was signed, but to protect the writer, the AMERICAN will withhold the name. The AMERICAN after other letters of a similar sort had been received, sent reporters to investigate conditions at the park. Here is the report of one of them.

Conditions Amazing.
Conditions at City Point are amazing. From 6:30 until 9:15 p. m. to be seen appeared at the City Point Park or on the piers and paths near by.

A crowd of young men between the ages of fifteen and twenty, and another gang of boys, most of them still in knickerbockers, made the immediate neighborhood of the "Baths," opposite the Head House in the park, a scene of intolerable conditions.

Young girls, singly and in groups, were openly insulted by rough and insolent rowdies. Young girls who ought to have been at home and in bed were chasing one another round the open space. The crowd of young boys was roughhousing.

Two fifteen-year-old girls in short dresses, were roughhandling two fifteen-year-old girls in short dresses. The latter lack of police supervision or protection made it possible for the conditions to exist, which they existed without fear of the police.

They testified that the United Shoe Machinery Company had forced them to sell their shoes to the United Shoe Machinery Company.

Sunken Schooner Priscilla Raised

Craft in Collision Beached on Flats. Place Blame Today.

The auxiliary schooner Priscilla, sunk by the Nahant boat MacGinnon Tuesday off the Commonwealth Pier, rested today on the mud at Jeffrey Point, and repairs are under way which will make her good as new.

Records and "forfeitures" due the harbor yesterday saw the schooner raised. The Scott-Wheeler Company had charge of the work. Chains were passed under the Priscilla and a "hook" pulled it up.

The steam of the MacGinnon, which was at the pier of the Priscilla, was otherwise practically unharmed. United States inspectors today place the blame.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

Captain Tom Glendon of the Back Bay police, has started a strenuous campaign against speeding and reckless automobile violations. Just now his men are wearing a speed and horn trap on Highland avenue, between Warren and Irvington streets. This particular spot has become quite dangerous because of the diverting of cars down Ketter street, and the motorists, it seems, have not been over careful—the trap.

Quite a number were gathered in the police net yesterday, and these motorists were all about trouble with the police had better blow their horns and drive up with care.

THE BOSTON POST

In the Henry Siegel Company's advertisement in Tuesday morning's Post, announcing their Red Letter Day Sale on Wednesday, there appeared this item, advertising "$6.00 Couch Hammocks at 21c," which was incorrect.

In Wednesday's Post (the morning of the sale) an announcement was made correcting the mistake and giving the right selling price, $3.95. Evidently all readers of the first advertisement did

BOSTON AMERICAN

NO. 80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JUNE 26, 1913.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND,
DAILY AND SUNDAYA Shaken Confidence
Must Be Restored

It will be a relief to the whole country to learn that the Diggs-Cammetti "white-slave" prosecutions in California are to be pressed with due diligence, despite the private pressure brought to bear on the Attorney-General and others in Washington.

Indeed, such a course was inevitable the moment District Attorney John L. McNab, of the Northern District of California, made public his courageous letter of resignation to the President, thereby attracting public attention to a grave judicial scandal.

The expression of public opinion was both instant, widespread and practically unanimous. A flood of telegrams poured into the White House.

IT WILL TAKE MORE THAN AN ORDER FROM THE PRESIDENT to go ahead with all seemingly safe with these cases, an order penned AFTER a storm of popular indignation had broken, TO RESTORE CONFIDENCE in the impartial workings of these courts of justice over which the federal authorities have control and in those other officers of the government who have shown such lax judgment on so serious an occasion.

Congress has the very urgent duty before it of not only establishing all the facts but also of FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY AND THE BLAME.

Loan Sharks Are Criminals in Massachusetts—If They Harass You, Tell the AMERICAN or E. Gerry
Brown at Once

You read in the newspapers from time to time of men and women killing themselves because of persecutions by money sharks. Thanks to the law which the AMERICAN helped to make and to the work of E. Gerry Brown, Supervisor of Loan Agencies, who is enforcing the law, these instances of persecutions by money sharks are very few in Massachusetts.

But they ARE going on, as the AMERICAN knows by the letters it receives from time to time from harassed borrowers of small loans from loan sharks.

If there are any unfortunate people who find themselves persecuted by loan sharks, the AMERICAN urges them to communicate with the AMERICAN or with E. Gerry Brown, the Supervisor of Loan Agencies, whose office is at No. 6 Park street.

This newspaper has always considered itself the tribune of the distressed and the oppressed in this community. If any money lender is illegally harassing any woman or man in Massachusetts, and if he or she will inform the Boston AMERICAN of the fact, the oppression will be made to cease.

Whoever are in the unlawful grip of these money lenders owe it to themselves and to their families and to the public to resist this oppression by appealing to the AMERICAN or to Supervisor Brown. It is a duty to the public because it will enable the public authorities to discover who among the money lenders are disobeying the law and to punish these offenders and to drive them out of business. Every one who exposes one of these criminal transactions helps to enforce the laws and helps also many poor victims who may now be suffering or who may in the future suffer at the hands of these men if they should become emboldened by the silence of all their victims.

The AMERICAN Commends the Appointment of Mr. Anderson—and Has Hopes of Mr.
Lawrence

The appointment of Mr. George W. Anderson to the Public Service Commission is one of the best appointments which Governor Foss has ever made. Mr. Anderson has won a reputation in this State for ability and independence which gives ample assurance that he will be a faithful public servant on this powerful and important board.

In the appointment of Congressman Lawrence to the same board, the Governor has experimented again with a man of reactionary antecedents and associations. Similar experiments by the Governor in the past have not proved happy, and undoubtedly Governor Foss regrets them more than anybody else.

The AMERICAN hopes that Mr. Lawrence will appreciate the new spirit of the times and will give a service to the people not denied by his very conservative record.

From Chocolates to Steak and Onions

How an extravagant honeymoon makes the home appear dull and shabby to the bride.
(See article below by DOROTHY DIX)

By DOROTHY DIX

IN a recent divorce case it was shown that the real cause of the wife's dissatisfaction with her husband was because he was not able to maintain the grand splurge of their bridal tour throughout their everyday life.

The wife had been a poor girl, a stenographer, who married a middle-aged merchant of moderate means. He took her for their honeymoon to Palm Beach and other fashionable resorts, and, dazzled by the magnificence of the hotels at which they stopped, she expected the same luxury ever afterward. The husband couldn't afford this, and when called upon to settle down into a modest flat the wife became peevish, and fretful, and disgruntled, and considered herself so ill used that she finally took her troubles to the divorce court.

This is a tale, and tale. Let it be a warning to every young man who is contemplating matrimony and who is figuring out where he shall go with his bride on their honeymoon.

Do Not Establish Millionaire
Standard of Comparison

Don't take her to a place where she will establish a millionaire standard of comparison and which will make the real home in which she has got to live look like thirty cents over afterward. On the contrary, conduct her to some quiet spot, mid humble surroundings, that will cause your little four rooms and a bath, with little running water, to seem like a palace by contrast. Whether we are satisfied or not depends altogether upon whether we look down or up, whether we contrast here with champagne, or with spring water. You get the idea?

The biggest and most dangerous ring in the matrimonial sea is branded IMPOSSIBLE EXPECTATIONS, and the majority of men court a head-on collision with it. That's the reason there are so many wrecks.

When a man weds a girl he devotes everything on earth to jeopardizing their future happiness together and to make their marriage a failure by handing her out false promises, and false impressions of what he is and what he's got, and the way they will be able to live, and to fill her mind and fire her imagination with anticipations that can never be realized.

She Foolishly Thinks Married
Life Is One Long Love Session

To begin with, he is the meekest, mildest, most tractable and amiable creature on earth, apparently so gentle that a girl child could lead him. He spends hours and hours telling her that he asks nothing else of life but the privilege of worshipping her, and singing the praises of her beauty and angelic qualities, and that he could die holding her little white hands in his.

She thinks, poor little goose, that being married is just nothing but one long love session, and then, when she finds out that a man drops love-making at the altar, and that he never notices how his wife looks unless to offer a criticism on it, and that instead of considering her an angel, she is led to believe that he thinks her the most faulty individual living, it gives her the shock of her life.

Also, when a man is courting a maid he does it by means of gifts, and flowers, and candy, and the theatre, and restaurants. There's nothing too good for her, and he scatters his money around with a liberal hand that leads the girl to form false ideas of his income and the manner in which he will be able to support her family.

Lucky Later On If She Has
Carfare to Ride in Subway

The average girl has never had the handling of any money, and knows nothing about business. Therefore when a youth feeds her on eighty-cent-a-pound chocolates, and conducts her to the best seats in the theatre, and blows her off to ten-dollar dinners, she argues that she will have a perfectly grand time going about to such places and indulging in such luxuries when she's married to him, and she's bitterly disappointed when she does marry him.

to find out that she's lucky to have subway carfare and to go to the movies and have an occasional glass of ice cream soda.

Many a woman secretly accuses her husband of being a tightwad, or of having ceased to love her, because after marriage he does not indulge her in the things that his munificence then led her to expect. She doesn't stop to reflect that the money that used to go into candy and flowers is now going into beefsteak and onions for her daily sustenance.

There is no doubt, however, that a very large per cent. of domestic misery is caused by men fostering these false ideas in women before marriage and leading them to expect a grandeur that they have no way of attaining. This not unnaturally provokes bitter disappointment and chagrin in the disappointed wives, and the result is misery for both.

Mr. Coffman, who makes pictures that cause people to think, has illustrated this little comedy—or tragedy—of life in the accompanying picture. In it you see the Claude McClellan of the department store, on the bookkeeper's stool, with his $25 per cent. and his lady before marriage.

He is "blowing her to a good time." They sit on the terrace of some smart restaurant, well dressed, eating dainty food, with soft lights and beautiful surroundings about them. The next scene is after marriage. They sit in their plain little kitchen surrounded by the odor of the stew cooking on the stove, the man in his shirt sleeves, smoking a pipe, everything poor and plain and unattractive. And the wife's face shows what she's thinking about it all.

Don't Court Girl in Taxi and Have Her Walk After Marriage

The moral of all of which is: Don't court a girl in a taxicab and expect her to be satisfied to walk after marriage, and don't take your bride to Europe on a honeymoon and expect her to be thrilled with a kitchenette apartment when you get home.

These sudden drops make women dizzy.

Electricity—It Is a Miraculous
Force, But There Are Even Finer, More Remarkable
Forces in the Universe.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1912, by the Star Company.

NO less authority in electrical science than Thomas Edison is reported to have said: "If electricity is a substance or fluid of any kind, I have not been able to find, see, weigh or in any manner sense it." Electricians, and students of physics generally, are more and more inclined to the belief that there is no such thing as electricity. The phenomenon known as electricity may be likened to an echo. The impact of air waves, caused by the explosion of powder against trees, houses or rocks, causes a disturbance in the aerial elements that produces sound. Sound is a rate of motion. It is claimed by some of the advanced thinkers that there is a rate of motion that will always cause the effect known as electricity.—News Item.

Wise Men Have Known and Employed This Force for Ages

The ancient seers of India called it Akasa. They said everything which exists is a form of Akasa. Coal is one form; gas, a finer form of it; electricity, a still finer; but the mind of man in Akasa is a yet more subtle shape and the next higher and finer is the mind of God. So God, the Creator Himself, is Akasa, and we are all a part of it.—Him.

Keep that thought in mind—fill yourself with it—and there is nothing you cannot do to better and brighter your own life and the life of the race.

Awake every morning with a prayer of gratitude on your lips. Say: "I am Akasa, the divine Staff of God and His universe; I am a power for good, for usefulness, for health, for success!"

Say it over and over, so matter how degrading your conditions, how dark your outlook, how full of pain your body, how empty your purse.

Perpetuating in the assertion will bring its results.

If you begin to think it ridiculous, absurd, unreasonable and foolish to make these assertions, just recollect how your ancestors scoffed at the idea of the telegraph, the cable, the telephone.

Cyrus Field was made the butt of cruel jests for years, by the most brilliant men of the day, because he believed a cable across the ocean could be laid under water. But he persisted in using the "Akasa" of his mind in this thought and we know what resulted.

If you persist in using the Akasa of your mind in thoughts of love, usefulness, health and success, all these things will come to you. You will be persistent in using the "Akasa" of your mind in this thought and we know what resulted.

Added to your assertions, live them.

Eat Simply, Breathe Deeply;
Sleep with Open Windows

If you are made of the Akasa of God (and you are), do not overload your system with food; do not poison it with drugs; do not strain it with anxieties!

Eat simply, and only what you need to supply vital force and strength. "Eat as you would live."

Breathe deeply—fill your body with fresh air three times a day. Stand erect, as if you intended to look God in the face. Sleep with open windows.

If you do all this, you will be what you will be, in spite of circumstances, environment and obstacles.

For you are greater than all!

VACATION PLANS

By WEX JONES

THIS year when my vacation comes I know the place I'll go. 'Way North where monster polar bears go stalking through the snow. I've seen in moving pictures how they lance the thrashing whale, and I bet the worried walrus and grab sealabins by the bale. It's better than Nantasket far, and your Revere Midway thrills are nothing to the cracking crash when a glacier overfalls. Yes, no for Peary's kind of dope—this Arctic is a real place. A-chasing bears and walrus across a frozen sea.

But stay, I've changed my mind. In an outfit magazine I just saw some dazzling pictures of quite another scene. I guess I'll go to Africa, where the lordly lion yowls. Where the dik-dik loudly cickers and the hoarse hyena howls. The pictures in the magazine show—the African elephant with his heel Upon a lion, very dead, while the movie gets a reel. They show the hippopotamus, a most amusing brute, Giraffes and elephants and things it is the mode to shoot.

Again I hesitate. These words upon my vision hurt: "If you're a true American, you must see the U. S. first." There are pictures of the Rockies, of hunting camps in Maine, of California beaches and the missions of Old Spain. I've seen Boston and Chelsea, and was once in Buffalo. But, of course, there are some other spots where it's worth one's while to go.

I can't make up my mind at all. The puzzle racks my dome, And so I'll probably wind up by staying right at home.
